AN INTERESTING BOOK

"Is it an interesting book?" Ted asks.

"Yes, it is," Mary answers.

"What about is this book?"

"It's about the Queen of Fairland, and her wonderful garden full of miracles."

"I see a picture of snakes on the cover of the book. Is this story about snakes too?"

"Oh, you ask too many questions, Ted!

Please, be quiet! I want to get to know what happens in the Queen's Palace."

"And what is going on there?"

"The Queen has a magic tree.

It's a quince-tree with seven golden quinces. Seven poisonous snakes guard the magic fruits day and night.

Nobody can steal them. The quinces give eternal life and youth. A bad wizard brings a mongoose to the Queen's Palace..."

"What a great story! I like it!

Can you give me the book to read?"

"Of course, I can. But not now.

At first I want to read it myself!"
